Chief Actuary Harri Nummila from Statistics Finland emphasizes that, as the name implies, hourly wage statistics only tell about hourly wages. Information on monthly salaries is published separately.

All employees are described in the structure of earnings statistics. For example, according to the 2015 wage structure statistics, the hourly wage of Finnish wage earners was EUR 19.6.

Hourly wages rose by 1.1 per cent in the fourth quarter of 2016 compared with the corresponding period of the previous year.

According to the hourly wage statistics, the difference between men and women in the average hourly wage decreased slightly and was now exactly three euros.

The statistics describe the data of about 322,000 employees. More than 70 percent of them were workers in industry and construction.

Stackers receive the highest average hourly wage in the hourly wage sectors. Their hourly wage was 21.5 euros. Garden workers are at the tail end of payroll statistics. They earn 10.2 euros per hour.

Chief Actuary Nummila says that the highest average earnings of monthly salaried employees are among the leaders of labor market and business organizations. Average earnings rise to 8,870 euros per month.

According to the private sector's monthly salary statistics, the highest salary is obtained with a specialist's degree, ie EUR 7,431 per month.
